

Spirit of the Streets Choir

Choir Update 20th September, 2008

All three choirs met at the St Brigid's Church Hall, for rehearsal on the afternoon of the State election. A little light relief to from the incessant hurly burly of an election campaign.

These rehearsals provide a great opportunity not only to make progress with developing the performance but also socialise and get to know and understand each other a little better.

Any subsequent walk through the CBD brings you in contact with people selling the “Big Issue” on street corners and they are no longer just a part of the landscape but you see them as real people, greet them as friends and enjoy a conversation with a shared interest.

Even those who are not members of the choir, know about the event and hand out flyers with the information with great enthusiasm.

The publicity campaign is now starting out in earnest with Sue Scrutton, our publicist, using her immense energy and contact list to explore every avenue for placing the event before the public eye.

We are immensely grateful to her and to the radio, TV and print media who are supporting the publicity campaign. This month we have new sponsors who have joined the project to assist our promotion activities we welcome:-

The West Australian Newspaper
Cinema Paradiso
Hot Cotton

Our wonderful producer, Rachel Moorhead together with her volunteers are working hard on a myriad tasks which will come together on the night to make this a truly memorable evening and certainly one which will lift the spirits of all concerned, both our audience and the performers.
